Sales Script — Pizza Shops

V1.0 · FOR NEPA-REGION PIZZERIAS

Why this market

15–30%

third-party fee per order on DoorDash / Uber Eats / Grubhub

average uplift in ticket size when ordering on the restaurant's own site

Independent pizzerias are squeezed at both ends: third-party delivery apps take a heavy cut on every order they bring, and most owners don't have the technical setup to take orders on their own site. That spread — what they're paying to platforms vs. what they could keep — is the wedge for our pitch.

Industry signal: the National Restaurant Association and successive industry surveys consistently show that customers prefer to order directly from a restaurant when given an easy option. The friction is the website, not the desire.

1. Pre-call research (60 seconds)

- ☐ Open the lead detail in the dialer — note the name and city
- ☐ Google "[business name] pizza" — do they appear with a website? Order online button?
- ☐ Click their Google Business Profile — do photos look fresh? Is online ordering enabled?
- ☐ Open their existing site (if any) on a phone-sized window — is it slow? Do you bounce?

You're looking for the specific gap: no site, ugly site, or no online ordering. That's your opening hook.

2. Opening

Required identification (TCPA): the first thing out of your mouth on every call must be your name, that you are calling from NEPA-PRO LLC, and the purpose of the call. Failure to identify violates federal law.

YOU

"Hi, this is [your first name] calling from NEPA-PRO — we're a veteran-owned shop in Clarks Summit. I'm reaching out today because we just spun up a platform that helps NEPA pizzerias take orders on their own site instead of giving up 30% to DoorDash. Real quick — do you currently take online orders on your own website, or is most of it through the apps?"

PURPOSE

The closing question is doing two things: confirming compliance (we declared it's a sales call) and qualifying their real situation in 4 seconds.

3. Discovery — three questions

1. "What percent of your orders come through DoorDash, Uber Eats, or Grubhub?" If high → pain point #1 confirmed. If low → they're missing the modern channel entirely; different pitch.
2. "When was your website last updated?" "Years ago" or "I don't know" → big opportunity. "We have one through Wix" → reframe to what they don't get from Wix.
3. "If you could push out a notification to your last 200 customers tonight saying 'large pies are $12 until 9 PM,' would that be useful to you?" This is the imagination question. If they say yes — and they will — the rest of the call writes itself.

4. Value pitch — pizza-specific

YOU "Here's what we'd build for [shop name] — a website that doubles as an installable app on your customer's phone. They tap 'Order' once and it lives on their home screen forever, no app store needed."

YOU "Three things it does that your current setup doesn't:"

1. Online ordering on your own domain — keeps the full margin instead of giving 15–30% to DoorDash. Stripe-powered checkout, prints to your kitchen the same way third-party orders do.
2. SMS & push notifications — when business is slow on a Tuesday at 4, blast your customer list with a flash deal. Most customers respond within an hour.
3. Loyalty / rewards built in — every 10th pizza free, birthday coupons, etc. Owned by you, not a third party.

Optional, if relevant: catering quote forms, party-size menus, gift cards, fundraiser nights for local sports teams.

5. Pricing & CTA

We don't quote on the discovery call. The goal of this call is to book the 10-minute walkthrough on Zoom or in person.

YOU "Best way to do this is I share my screen for 10 minutes and walk you through what we'd build for [shop name] specifically. I'll prep the screens before the call. Is Wednesday or Thursday this week better, mornings or afternoons?"

Assumed close. Don't ask "would you like to schedule a call?" — ask which time. Half-pricing the cognitive cost of saying yes is half the battle.

6. Top pizza-specific objections

THEY SAY	YOU SAY
"DoorDash brings me business I wouldn't get otherwise."	"Totally true — keep DoorDash. We're not replacing it, we're adding a channel where you keep 100%. Repeat customers move to your site once they know it exists. New customers still come from the apps."
"My customers don't order online, they call."	"Some do, sure. The question is whether you want to be the place that only takes phone orders in 2026. Even your loyal regulars miss your specials when they're not driving by."
"I don't want to deal with another POS / printer / setup."	"Hear that a lot. Our system prints to your existing kitchen the same way DoorDash does. Setup is on us, you don't touch a thing — we run a parallel test for two weeks before you flip the switch."
"I had a site, nobody used it."	"That's almost always because nobody was driving traffic to it. We tie the site to your Google Business Profile, your social, and the door receipts so customers actually find it. Want to see what that looks like?"

7. After the call

- ☐ If booked → calendar invite within 5 minutes, mark Qualified
- ☐ If LVM → use the Voicemail Script doc, mark LVM, send Email Follow-up
- ☐ If "not interested" → polite exit, mark Lost
- ☐ If "remove me" → mark Do Not Call immediately, no follow-up

For pricing, "send me an email," and other generic pushback, see the Objection Handling Library.
