SUBJ [Business name] — quick voicemail follow-up

BODY Hi [Owner first name if known, else "there"],

I just left you a quick voicemail. I run sales for NEPA-PRO, a veteran-owned construction and tech company based in Clarks Summit, PA. We've started a new platform — app.nepa-pro.com — that builds websites and installable mobile apps (PWAs) tailored to [industry] businesses across NEPA.

A few things we typically help [industry] owners with:

- [bullet 1 — pull from category script]
- [bullet 2]
- [bullet 3]

If any of that sounds useful, I'd love a 10-minute call to walk you through what we'd build. My calendar is wide open this week — just reply with a time that works, or call me back at (570) 677-7971.

Either way, thanks for your time.

Rules

- ☐ One email after the LVM. Not two.
- ☐ No attachments — they trigger spam filters and clipboards.
- ☐ Plain text > fancy HTML. We sell the platform; the email isn't a demo.
- ☐ If they reply asking for info, send the public one-pager and book the discovery call. Don't sell over email.
- ☐ If they reply "remove me" or any equivalent — mark DNC same day, send a one-line acknowledgment ("Confirmed, removed. Have a good one."), do not follow up.
