Why this market

~$2K

federal tax credit on qualifying heat pump installs (Inflation Reduction Act)

$8K–$15K

typical residential system replacement — financing visibility moves the needle

HVAC is emergency-driven (AC fails in a heatwave, furnace fails in a cold snap) and high-ticket for replacements. Two pain points run the industry: (1) after-hours and overflow calls go to voicemail and convert into a competitor's job, and (2) the contractor's website rarely surfaces financing or rebates that would otherwise close more replacements. The pitch addresses both directly.

Industry signal: federal tax credits under the Inflation Reduction Act and PA-specific utility rebates (PPL, PECO, etc.) are real money on the table that most contractor websites don't surface. Helping owners advertise these correctly is a quick value-add that pays for the build several times over.

1. Pre-call research

- ☐ Google "HVAC [city] PA" — where do they rank? Who beats them?
- ☐ Pull up their website on a phone-sized window — does it have a "Request Service" form? A finance link?
- ☐ Check Google Business Profile — recent reviews? Photos of crews/installs?
- ☐ Are they a Trane / Carrier / Lennox dealer? Most are; surface that as credibility on their own site.

2. Opening

Required identification (TCPA): the first thing out of your mouth on every call must be your name, that you are calling from NEPA-PRO LLC, and the purpose of the call. Failure to identify violates federal law.

YOU

"Hi, this is [your first name] from NEPA-PRO — we're a veteran-owned shop in Clarks Summit. I'm calling because we built a website and emergency-dispatch platform specifically for HVAC contractors in PA. Quick question first — when somebody calls you at 9 PM in a heatwave because their AC died, does that call ring through, or does it go to voicemail?"

PURPOSE

The opening question isolates the most painful real-world failure mode. Almost everyone says "voicemail" or "depends." Either answer is your wedge.

3. Discovery

1. "What percentage of your service calls come in after hours, and how many of those convert?" Most contractors don't track this. The answer reveals their setup; the question makes them think about it.
2. "When you quote a $12,000 system replacement, how do customers find out you offer financing?" Almost always: "I tell them on the call." Reframe: that means anyone who didn't call yet doesn't know.
3. "Do you have a maintenance program — and is it visible on your website?" Recurring revenue is the biggest under-leveraged asset most contractors have. We'll surface it.

4. Value pitch — HVAC-specific

1. 24/7 emergency request capture — homeowner fills out a form when you can't pick up; you get a text and an email instantly. No more lost emergencies.
2. Financing visibility front-and-center — "Replace your system from $X/mo, $0 down" right on the homepage. We integrate with whatever finance partner you already use (Synchrony, GreenSky, Wells Fargo).
3. Rebate & tax credit calculator — homeowner enters their existing system age and equipment type; the page shows them what they'd save with current PA rebates and federal credits. Closes replacements that would otherwise be "let me think about it."
4. Maintenance plan signup — recurring revenue with a self-service signup. Tiers (silver/gold/platinum), automatic credit card billing, scheduled reminders for spring/fall tune-ups.
5. Live tech ETA — once dispatched, customer sees "Dave will arrive between 2:15 and 2:45 PM, here's a photo of him so you know who's at the door." Massive trust builder.
6. Branded service-area pages — local SEO for every town you serve. "HVAC repair Clarks Summit," "AC installation Scranton," etc. Each ranks individually.

5. Pricing & CTA

YOU "Best thing is for me to share my screen for 15 minutes — I'll have mockups built for [their company] specifically with your service area, your finance terms, and the rebates you'd qualify customers for. Tuesday or Thursday this week, mornings or afternoons?"

HVAC owners book in shoulder seasons (spring/fall). If you're calling in peak summer or peak winter, lean on "I know you're slammed — let me lock in 15 minutes for next week." They'll respect the awareness.

6. HVAC-specific objections

THEY SAY	YOU SAY
"My answering service handles after-hours."	"Got it — keep them. We add the form on top so the homeowner has options. Some prefer typing details at 11 PM over explaining their broken AC to a third-party operator. Both channels feed the same dispatch."
"Financing is on my paperwork — customers see it when I quote."	"Right. The piece they're missing is seeing 'starts at $189/mo' before they even called you. That's how the homeowner who would've called the cheap guy decides to call you instead."
"I'm not interested in maintenance plans, too much hassle."	"Hear that. The reason it's been a hassle is the manual billing. We make signup self-service and charge cards automatically every quarter. You set the price tiers; the system runs itself."
"I get most of my work from referrals."	"Best channel. The site doesn't replace referrals — it converts them. When somebody mentions you, the next thing they do is Google you. If your site looks weak or doesn't load on phones, you lose half those referrals before they call."
"I tried Google Ads, didn't work."	"Google Ads without a site that converts is just renting traffic that bounces. Fix the site first, ads come second. Want to see what 'site that converts' actually means?"

7. After the call

- ☐ If booked → calendar invite within 5 minutes, mark Qualified
- ☐ If LVM → use the Voicemail Script doc, mark LVM, send Email Follow-up
- ☐ If "not interested" → polite exit, mark Lost
- ☐ If "remove me" → mark Do Not Call immediately, no follow-up

For pricing, "send me an email," and other generic pushback, see the Objection Handling Library.
